

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

THURSDAY EVE., DEC. 28, 1882.

ROSSER & MCCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

Blow the trumpets loud and long,
And set the sheep-skin drumming,
For Barlow, Wilson's minstrel corps
Will down this way be coming.
Schoolcraft, Wagner, Wilson, Coes,
Will please both small and big
With double-twisted essence of
The real southern "nig."

Don't forget the entertainment by Prof. Johnson's music class at the opera house this evening. It will be a rare musical treat.

BARLOW WILSON & Co.'s minstrel troupe numbers thirty-five performers. This is the largest company that has ever appeared in this city, and the entertainment given will undoubtedly be the best.

UPON representations made to the board of health by Drs. Cartmell, Phister and Pickett, the premises of Mrs. Dunn, on January street, have been strictly "quarantined" for the protection of the public.

At a regular meeting of Ringold Lodge, held at their hall on the night of December 28th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

Watched and Canned.

The Rev. M. D. Reynolds, pastor of the M. E. Church, South is the wearer of a valuable gold watch, a holiday gift from the members of his congregation. It was given to him at the entertainment for the children of the church held last Tuesday evening and was presented by Mr. Rice Bullock. It was a kindness that Mr. Reynolds thoroughly appreciates.

If you should happen to meet on the street, any time this week, a man covered all over with smiles and apparently just out of the seventh heaven of happiness you may be sure it is George McMurtry. And it is all on account of a handsome gold headed cane which bears this inscription: "Presented to G. C. McMurtry by the employees of the Central Hotel." We are safe in saying there is not a better pleased man in town.

I don't care a cuss for the snow or the rain, All the same I go swinging my gold head cane, And of all the gifts that any may get, This one of mine is a dandy, you bet.

Tribute of Respect.

At the regular session of the Presbyterian church, south, Sunday school, last Sunday, the following tribute of respect to the memory of one of the deceased scholars was read by the superintendent and on motion of J. James Wood was adopted by the school and a copy ordered furnished for publication and sent to the family.

As the year is about drawing to a close it brings us to thoughts of reflection and thanksgiving that our lives have been spared to enjoy another season of Christmas festivities. But in all their happy surroundings it is with feelings of sadness that I announce to you, one of our little flock has been lately taken away from us by the hand of death. Miss Amanda Hill Wallace, one of our scholars, has been taken into the fold of the good Shepherd and is gone forever into the spirit land. She loved the Sunday school and the songs of Jesus, and we know she has gone to that beautiful city far away in the kingdom of God, where no sorrows or tears shall ever reach us and where death shall never enter. May we all love the Sunday school and follow the good Shepherd so that we, too, may go to that happy land. Even though small and young in years, we may have faith in God.

"Faith builds a bridge across the gulf of death. To break the shock blind nature can not shun, And lands thought smoothly on the farther shore."

ANDREW T. COX, Superintendent.

Minstrels Coming.

The world famous Barlow, Wilson & Co.'s minstrels will give an entertainment in this city on Wednesday, January 3d., at the opera house. It is unquestionably the best troupe that has ever visited Maysville and is sure to have a packed house. Barlow, Wilson, Cal. Wagner, Luke Schoolcraft, Young, McIntire, Templeton, Fagan, Coes and other celebrated stars are with this troupe and will positively appear. The Dayton, O., Journal of Dec. 25th says:

As was expected, Music Hall was crowded last night to witness the entertainment given by Barlow, Wilson & Co. This is one of the best minstrels in the country, and the entertainment at matinee and night yesterday was one of the best shows in this line in Dayton for years. Milt Barlow and George Wilson are a whole show themselves. The songs in the first part were gems in their way, while the gags were all new, neat and good. The olio was especially strong; it is safe to say the best ever introduced in Dayton.

A Growl About Gas.

MAYSVILLE, Ky., December 28, 1882.
Mr. Editor: I would like to ask through your paper how long our gas company proposes to impose upon the people of Maysville a gas light scarcely equal to that of an ordinary coal oil lamp at $3.00 per thousand feet. I am told the company says that the very poor light we have is because their main pipes are too small, and the pressure not sufficient! Then why don't they enlarge their pipes and furnish more pressure? They certainly get price enough for their gas to justify them in making some expenditure that will furnish our citizens with a good quality of gas and plenty of it. They ought, in justice, to do this or reduce the price of the poor light they now give us. "Poor gas, poor pay." ENQUIRER.
